In 2006...

"We've brought back rolling pin hurling as one of the sixtieth anniversary activities. The prize for the longest throw is the same thing that the contestants competed for in 1946: a pair of nylon stockings."

In the 1970s...

"Miss Terry McCrimmon of Milford, a nurse-in-training, was crowned Miss South Marysburgh as a result of a beauty and talent contest held in connection with the Milford Fair, Wednesday night. The dark-haired beauty clinched the title by also scoring well in giving a reading. Judges were Mrs. Gordon Bell, Sam Gentile and Phil Dodds.

Mr. Gentile, in announcing the winners, commented on the closeness of the points and the unusually attractive contestants."

In 1964...

Five members of the orchestra were each given a can of ham for their services at the evening show.

In 2003...

"At the monthly Fair Board meetings we are prepared to deal with issues of any size. At the July meeting, the Fair Board approved a recommendation to reduce from five to three the required number of muffins on a plate entered in the muffin category of the baking contest."

As rain threatened, organizers decided to open the doors to them in spite of the fact that there were no tickets on site yet. The audience got indoors just as the skies opened and the rain poured down.

An interesting Milford note: those who were let in early were requested to pay when the tickets arrived and, apparently, every single one of them did.

Only in Milford ..."
